The check, and the word, sharpened.

The letters

- Heavy, as before. Same weight, size and spacing as the original Tyll letters; only their shapes changed.
- The y is a check. A long stroke ending in a point and a short one cut parallel to it, across the same gap the check has.
- The l's are cut. Their tops rise to the right, the way the check rises.
- One slope. The check, the y and every slanted cut lean at 67°.
- Drawn, not typed. No font file: use the logo files, never retype the word.
